Charleston Weddings magazine's editorial internship

We are currently accepting applications for Charleston Weddings' fall/winter editorial internship, running from November 2015 through February 2016.

This internship is an opportunity for students to hone and practice their journalistic skills by working first-hand on an editorial team. The fall-winter program will coordinate with the production of our spring 2016 issue, so the intern will have the chance to work on an issue of the magazine from start to finish—this includes a good deal of writing, editing, fact-checking, and handling of general administrative work for both print and web. The editorial intern will also help with at least one fashion photo shoot, social media, public relations efforts, and more.

We're looking for candidates with strong skills and experience in proofing and copy editing (in both AP and Chicago Style); solid feature writing skills; and managerial capabilities. Added bonus? Proficiency in Adobe inDesign and an interest in the subject matter.

Applicants should send their résumé, references, and three writing samples (the latter edited only by themselves) to Molly Ramsey (molly@charlestonmag.com).
